The entire group is required to select the same menu package. For menus 4–7, guests may choose between meat or fish as the main course. A maximum of two different main course options can be selected per group (for example, half chicken and half pork). Side dishes are selected based on the chosen main course and will be the same for all guests. Prices are charged per person according to the chosen main course.

Vegan options are available separately from items 8 and 9.
